

必須科目

試験時間（60分）

注意事項

- 1 試験開始の合図があるまで、この冊子を開いてはいけません。
- 2 この問題冊子には、英語コミュニケーションⅠ・Ⅱ（1～10頁）の問題があります。
- 3 もし汚れや落丁などがあれば取り替えますので、手をあげて申し出てください。
- 4 試験開始前に、下記の「記入欄の注意事項」及び「解答欄に解答するときの注意事項」をよく読み、解答用紙の記入欄にそれぞれ正しく記入、マークしてください。

「記入欄の注意事項」

- ① 志望学科欄 志望する学科名を記入してください。
- ② 氏 名 欄 氏名とフリガナを記入してください。
- ③ 受験番号欄 受験番号を上記入し、さらに下のマーク欄にマークしてください。
- ④ 受験科目欄 選択した科目名をマークしてください。

「解答欄に解答するときの注意事項」

マークは下の（例）のように正しく記入し、解答を訂正したときには、訂正箇所を完全に消し、消しクズを残さないようにしてください。例えば、解答番号 5 の 2 にマークする場合、次のようにマークしてください。

（例） 5 1 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 0

次のようなマークは採点されないことがあるので注意してください。

（悪い例） ○ ✓ ● ⊕

- 5 マークシートは必ず提出してください。
- 6 問題冊子は持ち帰ってもかまいません。

英語コミュニケーション I・II

(解答番号 ～)

第1問 次の問い（問1～6）において、それぞれ下の①～⑤の語を並べかえて、空所を補い、文を完成させなさい。解答は ～ に入るものの番号のみを答えなさい。ただし、文頭に来る語を小文字にしてある。

問1 Entrance () () () () ().

① building ② into ③ the ④ is ⑤ prohibited

問2 The peaches that () () () () () gradually.

① the ② in ③ were ④ disappeared ⑤ bowl

問3 Fuel () () () () () development .

① efficiency ② research ③ with ④ improves ⑤ and

問4 Adults often throw balls slower () () () () ().

① accurately ② less ③ age ④ with ⑤ and

問5 People () () () () () at the parade.

① balloon ② enormous ③ figures ④ enjoy ⑤ the

問6 The () () () () () red ones.

① recommend ② I ③ shoes ④ those ⑤ are

第2問 次の問い（問1～8）の空欄〔13〕～〔20〕に入れるのに最も適切なものを、下の①～④の中からそれぞれ一つずつ選びなさい。

問1 They were impressed by the sushi chef's (〔13〕).

- ① humble ② humbleness ③ humbly ④ hummer

問2 We would often (〔14〕) to be animals.

- ① pretending ② pretender ③ pretend ④ pretense

問3 We were (〔15〕) that her new clothes arrived on time.

- ① relieved ② relieve ③ relieving ④ relief

問4 His way of talking is totally (〔16〕).

- ① unit ② union ③ unify ④ unique

問5 Her (〔17〕) at the game was sporting.

- ① conduct ② conducting ③ conductive ④ conductor

問6 The sculpture was (〔18〕).

- ① fashion ② fascinating ③ fasted ④ fasten

問7 We had to ask (〔19〕) before we boarded the ship.

- ① omission ② admission ③ mission ④ permission

問8 The (〔20〕) officer had to sit outside while his superior had the meeting.

- ① junior ② primary ③ senior ④ major

第3問 次の問い (A, B) に答えなさい。

A 次の文章の空欄〔21〕～〔22〕に入る最も適切な語を、それぞれ下の①～④の中から一つずつ選びなさい。

Reflective clothing is (〔21〕) for cyclists, especially when riding in low-light conditions. It dramatically increases visibility, ensuring that other road users can see the cyclist from a greater distance. This is crucial for safety, as it gives drivers more time to react and maneuver. Moreover, reflective gear can also help cyclists feel more secure and confident on the road, knowing they are more noticeable. Ultimately, wearing reflective clothing is a simple yet effective measure that can (〔22〕) reduce the risk of accidents and save lives.

(〔21〕)

- ① waste ② intuition ③ vital ④ noise

(〔22〕)

- ① very ② brightly ③ impatiently ④ significantly

B 次の文章の最後 (〔23〕) に入る三つの文が、順不同で下の A～C に示されている。論理的な文章にするのに最も適切な配列のものを、下の①～⑥の中から一つ選びなさい。

Stacey, who loved to travel, found herself missing the unique experience of airplane meals. One day, she discovered an online service that delivered authentic airplane food right to her doorstep. Excited by the prospect, she quickly placed an order for her favorite in-flight meal: teriyaki chicken with steamed rice and mixed vegetables.

(〔23〕)

A. The day her special delivery arrived, she set her dining table with a small tray, creating her own economy class setup at home.

B. As she enjoyed the familiar flavors, her mind wandered to the clouds reminiscing about past adventures and dreaming of future destinations.

C. Stacey finished the meal with a sigh. Stacey's food journey had taken off without leaving the ground.

- ① A-B-C ② A-C-B ③ B-A-C
④ B-C-A ⑤ C-A-B ⑥ C-B-A

第4問 次の文章を読み、問い（問1～5）の空欄 24 ～ 28 に入れるのに最も適切なものを、それぞれ下の①～④の中から一つずつ選びなさい。

Edith Macefield: Symbols of Resilience and Determination

Edith Macefield, born Doris Edith Wilson on August 21, 1921, was a woman of extraordinary resolve. Her story, which unfolded in the Ballard neighborhood of Seattle, Washington, has become a symbol of resistance against the relentless march of big companies that want to take people's property and use it for their businesses.

Macefield's early life was marked by a spirit of adventure and independence. Born in Oregon, she grew up in Seattle and New Orleans, and even lived in England during the 1930s. She was a polyglot, which means she could use several languages, having learned French before English, and was fluent in seven languages by her 80s. Macefield joined the military, but was later taken out of service because they found out that she was not eighteen. She stayed on to care for war orphans in England, and later returned home to care for her mother and work at Washington Dental Service. She was married four times, all in Europe, and outlived her last three husbands and her only child. Her only son died of natural causes when he was only 13.

In 2006, Macefield's quiet life took an unexpected turn. The Bridge Group LLC purchased most of the city block where Macefield's 106-year-old farm house was located to build a shopping mall. Macefield, then 85, was offered $750,000 for her home, a sum later increased to $1,000,000. The offer included finding a similar home in another location and paying all her home healthcare for the remainder of her life. However, Macefield refused both offers. Her refusal was simple – she didn't care about money, her mother died in the house, she was happy in her home, she did not want to move, and it was her home.

The developers proceeded with their plans, constructing the five-story Ballard Blocks Shopping Mall around Macefield's house. The sight of her small, century-old farmhouse, standing defiant amidst the towering edifice of the mall, caught the public's attention. Macefield became something of a folk hero, her story resonating with those who valued personal conviction over monetary gain.

During the construction, Macefield formed an unlikely friendship with Barry Martin, the project superintendent for the new mall. Despite initial suspicions that Martin was trying to trick Macefield into moving, it became clear that his intentions were genuine. He became a friend and caretaker to Macefield, a role he maintained until her death in 2008. Edith died at her family home, and she was buried next to mother, who died in 1976 on the same sofa that Edith died on.

In a final act of gratitude, Macefield gave her house to Martin. Her house, now surrounded by the mall, stands as a testament to her indomitable spirit. Martin later sold the house for $310,000 dollars to a man who wanted it for an office, but who also sold it. It is now owned by a company that is looking for a business to occupy it, but the house remains, a small home surrounded by the cold walls of a shopping mall.

After her death, Disney publicists attached balloons to the roof of Macefield's house as a promotional tie-in to their film, "Up." "Up" is a heartwarming and adventurous animated film released in 2009. The story revolves around Carl Fredricksen, a 78-year-old widower and retired balloon salesman.

After his wife Ellie passes away, Carl fulfills his lifelong dream of traveling to South America. He embarks on this journey by tying thousands of balloons to his house, lifting it off the ground. Along with him on this unexpected adventure is Russell, an 8-year-old boy who accidentally joins him.

Other real people have defied building developments like Macefield. Vera Coking owned a home in Atlantic City, New Jersey. Several wealthy and well-known people tried to buy her house, including Donald Trump. Coking continued to live in her house until 2010, when she moved in with her daughter. The house was destroyed by the new owner, as was the hotel and casino that Mr. Trump built right next door to Ms. Coking. The resort facility did not get enough business.

There are other examples of people who stand up for their homes all over the world, the Wu Ping house in China where she stood up to the Chinese government who wanted to build a shopping mall. Michael Forbes' house in Scotland is another example, and similar to Ms. Coking's home, was a target of Donald Trump who wanted to build a golf course on the property. Mr. Forbes' case is interesting because his hundreds of his friends helped him keep his home by buying small parts of the property, making it too much trouble to transfer the ownership of the land.

Edith Macefield's story, and stories like hers, is a powerful reminder of the importance of standing one's ground in the face of overwhelming odds. Her legacy continues to inspire and resonate with people around the world, symbolizing the triumph of personal conviction over commercial interests.

問 1 Edith Macefield became known for her strong commitment after ().

- ① a company tried to buy her home to build a mall
- ② a company tried to buy her home to build a golf course
- ③ the government tried to buy her home to build an office building
- ④ Donald Trump tried to buy her home to build a casino

問 2 Edith joined the military in World War II but had to quit because she ().

- ① wanted to make movies for Disney
- ② wanted to take care of orphaned children
- ③ was too young
- ④ spoke many languages so she became a spy

問 3 Edith's home ().

- ① was torn down after her death
- ② still stands as a symbol of her strength
- ③ was bought by a company in order to make a shopping mall
- ④ was tied to balloons and carried off to South America

問 4 Michael Forbes' friends () in order to make it too much work to buy.

- ① asked Donald Trump to put a golf course on the property
- ② played golf on the property
- ③ built their own shopping mall
- ④ all bought small pieces of his property

問 5 Edith's legacy lives on by ().

- ① encouraging people to sell their land to big businesses
- ② inspiring others to stand up against commercial development
- ③ helping people build their own shopping malls
- ④ teaching people how to fly their houses with balloons

第5問 次の問い（問1～7）の空欄 29 ～ 35 に入れるのに最も適切なものを、下の①～④の中からそれぞれ一つずつ選びなさい。

問1 A: Wait a minute. You have three kinds of apples on one tree?

B: (29).

A: That is a great idea. You can always eat your favorite kinds of apples.

- ① I'm surprised that you said you don't really like apples
- ② No, they are all the same kinds, just different colors
- ③ This is actually a pear tree, not an apple tree
- ④ That's right. I attached branches from two apple trees to this tree

問2 A: You said that you sell directly to the customer. Is that common?

B: (30).

A: I didn't think so. I had never heard of a farmer delivering food to their customers.

- ① Yes, over 75% of farmers go straight to their customers
- ② No, and it isn't possible at all
- ③ Not really. It is for organic farmers, but not for others
- ④ Car makers sell to dealerships who sell them to their customers

問3 A: I made this pendant out of stone.

B: (31).

A: No, it was surprisingly easy. I used a little hand-held grinder to cut the stone with.

- ① How much did it cost? It must have been expensive
- ② Where did you buy it? I want to get one too
- ③ How did you do that? It must have been hard
- ④ How many did you make? They sure look heavy to carry 問 4 A: (32) ?

B: The sticker says that I should get one in another 340 kilometers.

- ① When does your car need an oil change
- ② How often do you get an oil change
- ③ What kind of oil do you put in when you get an oil change
- ④ How many liters of oil do you put in when you get an oil change

問 5 A: I've been feeling a bit overwhelmed lately. Anyone else feeling like it's too much?

B: (33).

A: You're right. It's just hard to find the time. Between work and the kids I barely have time to breathe.

- ① That's a great idea. I'll try to implement that. Thanks for the kind words
- ② I totally understand. Remember, it's okay to take a break sometimes
- ③ I don't really have that problem. I just take some time off when I want to
- ④ I think you should probably work harder and stop taking breaks

問 6 A: I've been feeling really stressed out lately. (34) ?

B: Absolutely! There are lots of meditation apps out there that can help you relax.

A: That's a great idea. I'll try one.

- ① Does anyone know why
- ② Can anyone do my homework for me
- ③ Does anyone have any tips
- ④ How much do you think I'll need

問7 A: Did you catch the game last night? That was some match.

B: Absolutely! That comeback was amazing.

A.: It just goes to show you. (35).

① I like to snack on peanuts while I watch the game

② My television wasn't working

③ The other team wasn't very good

④ It's not over until it's over

(英語コミュニケーションⅠ・Ⅱ 終わり)

